Tiger Docks Provides Pond Access, Enhancing Learning Experience at Towne Park

O'FALLON, MO (October 2014) – Tiger Docks™ recently completed a 1,208-square foot floating dock system at Towne Park in western St. Charles County, providing extensive access to the pond adjacent to the park's education area.

Towne Park is named for the late Betty Towne, who donated the land for this purpose. Towne Park is unique in that it includes the only certified Nature Explore Classroom in St. Charles County. Tiger Docks helped to expand the education experience offered by the park's 11 learning stations by making the large pond on the property more user-friendly for school groups and families. Towne Park is a popular destination for field trips with nature.

While a .3 mile trail encircles the pond, Tiger Docks' boardwalk dock system brings visitors in contact with the wonders of nature by inviting them into the middle of the pond environment via floating pathways. The dock system extends from one side of the 1.5-acre pond to another, with larger viewing areas built in for fishing and educational activities. The total project includes two bridges, a floating dock walkway that crosses the entire pond, two wider education platforms, and a 100-foot dock arm that brings nature enthusiasts up close to various types of water plants and pond dwellers. A safety kick rail is included around the entire dock system.

“People love the serenity that the boardwalk docks offer at Towne Park,” said Roger Jonas, supervisor for Towne Park and Indian Camp Creek Park in the St. Charles County Parks Department. “Sometimes I’ll see someone just enjoying a book out on the water during their lunch break. Sometimes there are school children here who will learn about pond life and have fun watching the turtles. The dock project has really added value to the overall experience offered in this quaint park.”
